Research Interests

- Global industrial networks and local restructuring. This involves theoretical development and comparative analysis. I focussed on forest dependent regions in Alabama and western Newfoundland in 2000-5. With historian Sean Cadigan I am examining offshore oil and gas development in global context. In a CURA project directed by Barbara Neis, I am examining studying fisheries marketing and labour issues in fishing villages of western Newfoundland.
- Political sociology of environmental policy, including the impact of social movements. Conflict and management issues concerning the natural environment.
- Development of interdisciplinary theory and research with respect to the interaction of humans and the environment. This involves developing an improved political ecology framework and consideration of complex systems theory.
